

Free Press Editor Committed for Trial

M. B. Martin Will Answer Before Higher Court—Released on $500 Bail—Associated Editor Released

Magistrate Wade committed Milford Service Martin, managing editor of the Edmonton Free Press, this afternoon, to stand his trial for publishing a libellous article in the issue of the Free Press dated Dec. 24th. The case against J. D. McMillan, the other defendant in the case, was dismissed as the magistrate was unable to determine a prima facie case against him. The magistrate held that the article contained a distinct imputation against the character and means of livelihood of the plaintiff, Martin, was satisfied to bail on securing one surety of $200 each. The extreme injury attached to the imputation of the law is a part of the infringement of a fine of $200.

The preliminary hearing of the libel action brought by John Wentworth Woods, of Salt Lake City, against the Edmonton Free Press, and the considerable attention and seating room in Justice of the Peace Wade court today was at a premium. The Free Press, of course, received defence, merely intended to prove that no case had been made out.

Seven witnesses were examined, the most important of whom, of course, was Woods himself, and according to his own story he was anything but the character that the Free Press man pictured him. Woods said that he was a famous man and a publisher and that he had been for nine years, but of his former history he appeared to know very little. Mr. Woods complained of the article published in the Free Press in "Grafters" and "Bump Advertising," which appeared in the issue of Dec. 24th as one calculated to damage his business and reputation and primarily intended to apply to him.

The court adjourned last night at ten o'clock and resumed again this morning with four more witnesses. The defence put no witnesses in the box and placed the onus of proving libel upon the prosecution.

H. D. Grier was the first witness sworn this morning. He has taken space in the book Woods is suing upon. The contract is not fulfilled yet. Woods represented the book would not be published until sometime in April and represented that several thousand would be published. He said no money to be dissatisfied as yet. Mr. Saunders, of Saunders & Martin, appeared for the defence.

SASKATOON HAS A SERIOUS FIRE

Blaze Started in Stock Room of Newspaper Wipes Out "The Capital" and a Tailoring Concern

Bulletin Special. Saskatoon, Sask., Jan. 8.—One of the worst fires ever experienced in Saskatoon occurred this afternoon when the entire plant of the Capital Publishing company and Garner and Jamison's tailoring establishment were completely destroyed. The adjoining building, known as the Dakota restaurant, suffered a narrow escape being partially ruined and Mayor Wilson's residence was also scorched. How the fire originated is unknown. It was discovered about 3.30 p.m. in the stock room of the newspaper office on the second floor, where it had already gained some headway and was too late to offer any active resistance to its progress. The volunteer fire brigade with the aid of the C. N. R. hydrant, did excellent service and saved the surrounding buildings. A strong wind blowing from the south fanned the flames and placed a number of buildings in jeopardy. Insurance to the amount of about one-third of the damage was carried.

Dungeon Yawns for the Bright Boys of the Faber If They Are Guilty of Contempt of His Court

Charles H. Stuart-Wade, Justice of the Peace, who is acting as magistrate in the preliminary hearing of the Free Press libel suit, threw a whole bunch of his wrath upon the defendants. He said that any newspaper or any person who dared to publish an article in the paper which was calculated to damage the reputation of the plaintiff, he would be sure to punish. He said that any newspaper or any person who dared to publish an article in the paper which was calculated to damage the reputation of the plaintiff, he would be sure to punish.

The second witness was W. R. Weir, who said that he had seen the article in the Free Press and that he had seen the article in the Free Press and that he had seen the article in the Free Press. He said that any newspaper or any person who dared to publish an article in the paper which was calculated to damage the reputation of the plaintiff, he would be sure to punish.

CONTRACT LET FOR TELEPHONE POLES

Government Arranges For Supply of Native Tamarac For Laying of Telephone Lines

The government telephone lines of the Province of Alberta will be constructed of the best native tamarac poles. Native tamarac of Alberta is reputed to be the best material for the purpose obtainable. The department of public works will use native tamarac as far as possible in the construction of the telephone lines undertaken by them.

CONTRACT FOR SUPPLYING THE LINES FROM EDMONTON TO LLOYDMINSTER HAS BEEN AWARDED TO MILLER AND ROBERTSON, OF LLOYDMINSTER.

Below that point the poles will be floated down the Saskatchewan as far as Battleford, and thence shipped by rail to convenient points along the railway.

The contract calls for 5,000 native tamarac poles, which are to be 25 feet long and not less than 8 inches in diameter at the top, and not more than 7. The remainder of the poles will be of standard dimensions at the top end. The poles will be delivered in parcels of from 300 to 400 poles at various points along the C. N. R. The line will mainly follow the course of the railway.

FROM DAY TO DAY

LOVE'S MOODS.

I thought of my love in the distance.
Silent and wild was the place;
In a moment her voice lent its music,
And around shone the light of her face.

Her face, and her's only!

I stood in my love's sweet presence,
But a mood wrapped her soul from all view;
We spoke, but on flowed the silence,
And deeper the solitude grew—
How deep and how lonely!
—Edith M. Thomas.

AN ECCLESIASTICAL HAT.

A milliner who works in a large city says that one day a woman came into the store very much excited, and wanted the trimming on her new hat changed. She said it had been trimmed on the wrong side.

"But," said the saleswoman, "the trimming is on the left side. That is where it ought to be."

"It doesn't make any difference whether it ought to be on front or back, or left, it's got to be on the church side."

"Church side," gasped the actress, "shed girl."

"Yes, church side, and I'm not going to have all that trimming next the wall. I want it on the other side, so that the whole congregation can see it."

The trimming was promptly placed on the "church side" of the hat.

A WOMAN AMONG WOMEN.

To many Canadians who have had the privilege of meeting this great-hearted philanthropist, in England there is more than passing interest in the news of Harbess Burdett Coutts' death. She was one of the great women of the nineteenth century.

Many in Edmonton will remember that like many other generously great people she once did something that set the wisecracks to shaking their heads with the cry—"Silly! Silly!" When she was 67 years old she married a man of 30, a young American, a philanthropist and thinker. The baroness had lived long enough, and was intrinsically great enough to be indifferent to remarks from people on matters that did not concern them. She was a quite happy unit, revealed. The marriage occurred 25 years ago. Her young husband took her name, entered the British parliament, assisted her ably in devising and bestowing charities and has won universal respect.

The baroness had been ill for altogether nearly two months. In recent years she had led rather a secluded life. She was a great patroness of art, science and of literature, interfering little in politics. The baroness was the first peeress created in her own right, and the first woman presented with honorary citizenship in London. It is understood that the baroness leaves a fortune of about half a million pounds.

This lady beautiful of England, was one of the partners in the great banking house of Coutts—second only in wealth, to the Bank of England—and one of the richest peeresses in the kingdom. She was a close friend of Queen Victoria, and Edward VII. said of her: "Next to my mother, she is the most wonderful woman in England."

She was the daughter of Sir Francis Burdett and Sophia Coutts; and was born April 21, 1814; her maternal grandfather, Thomas Coutts, died ignoring his children, and leaving his great fortune to his second wife, who was Miss Mellon, a well-known actress. The widow later married the Duke of St. Albans, whose relatives treated her with violence and contempt for her verbal incoherence, her quaint speeches and her inability to master the social code of her set. Her will revealed her revenge when it was found that every penny of her fortune went to her step-granddaughter, Angela Burdett, then twenty-three, with the understanding that she should add a hyphen and Coutts to her name.

She was a beautiful girl, and it was thought that her riches would, perhaps, turn her head, or simply make her the wife of some rich nobleman. She kept her head as well as her heart, and from the first drew her money most judiciously in every philanthropic and charitable cause of which she approved.

It was in 1837, the year Victoria became Queen, that Miss Burdett Coutts began her life of benevolence and beneficence, limiting herself to no one phase of helplessness; but wherever she could benefit humanity her heart and her purse were open. She built and endowed St. Stephen's hospital, Westminster; ordered three colonial bishoprics; secured the government adoption of travelling inspectors of schools; gave funds for the topographical survey of Jerusalem; aided emigrants on a large scale, established a home for women, fitted out hundreds of boys for the navy, suggested the formation of the East London Weavers' association, erected memorial temples, assisted Sir Thomas Brooke in his work in Bessarabia, helped the starving fishermen of Cape Clear Island and the poor of London and Scotland, organized the Turkish Compagnies fund to help the war-torn entry during the Russo-Turkish war, and for nearly seventy years has devoted her life to the welfare of the poor.

In 1871 the Queen conferred a peerage on the great philanthropist. Altogether it is estimated that during the four decades and more of her life she has given for charitable purposes more than $2,000,000; and many of the most important charities in England owe their prosperity, or indeed, their very existence to her generosity. The whole long life of the baroness had been one of wise and unselfish devotion to good works.

She might have frittered her life away in social functions with rests between. But she did not, and the world is considerably better for this woman's life.

A pretty home wedding took place at the residence of Mrs. David Ross, of Whitesmuth, Manitoba, on New Year's day, when their daughter, Miss Lottie Lawrence Ross, became the wife of Mr. Archibald E. Page, civil engineer in the service of the Canadian Pacific railway. The bride was attired in white, caught with a bridal veil of white tulle, caught with a shower bouquet of white roses. She was attended by Miss Edith Ross, of Winnipeg, who wore blue silk and carried pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. Page left on the evening train for the west and will spend a few weeks on the Pacific coast before returning to Manitoba, where they will make their home.

Mrs. de Blois Thibault's tea yesterday afternoon was a most successful and enjoyable function. Mrs. Roy, for whom the tea was given, acted as hostess in receiving the numerous guests. Mrs. Duncan Smith and Mrs. Cross acted the tea and coffee, Mrs. Ross serving the ice. The tea table in its artistically unique decorations was very attractive. In the centre of the beautifully polished table a round mirror reflected the flower-like pink shades and graceful branches of a gold candelabra. The fine lace centrepiece was lined with pink silk, a color which was again dominant in a shower bouquet of flowers which was suspended by pink ribbons over the table. The effect was particularly pleasing. Among the guests present were Mrs. Roy, Mrs. Harrison Young, Mrs. Brown Campbell, Mrs. Percy Hardisty, Mrs. H. H. Watt, Mrs. Fraser, Mrs. Pringle, Mrs. Lynch, Mrs. T. F. S. Jackson, Mrs. W. H. Cooper, Mrs. J. J. Taylor, Mrs. Tarnhill and Miss Almon. Miss Woods' Miss Harris and Miss Becher assisted in the tea room.

BLOOD POISON KILLED HIM

Frederick Bolton, a Lockport man was struck on the arm by a flymouth rock roller, and neglected the wound. Blood poison set in and he died within a week. The air is full of disease germs and poisonous microbes and no open sore, no cut, no cold-cream is safe if neglected. Just think! A box of Zani-Buk might have saved Bolton's life. Zani-Buk's germ killing power has been proved to be greater than that of crude carbolic acid. Just imagine such power! Yet Zani-Buk is painless. Applied to a wound or sore it first kills all germs and prevents blood poisoning and festering. Then its healing power comes into operation and it builds up new, healthy tissue. Whether on cuts and wounds, or on ulcers or diseased sores, such as eczema, etc., just as effective. Healing, soothing and antiseptic, all in one.

ZAM-BUK CURES BLOOD POISON.

Even when blood poison has already set in, Zani-Buk is still just as effective. Miss Sedgwick, of Hantsville (Ala.), says: "I had a mangled arm, which I went the wrong way, and began to swell very badly. The pain from it was terrible, and when I went to the doctor he said it was blood poison. For ten months I was very bad with it. I tried all sorts of remedies, but could not get any, to say nothing of cure. One day in the house of a friend, Zani-Buk was recommended to me. On my friend's recommendation I applied some Zani-Buk that same night, but it was more to please her than because I had much faith in it. To my intense surprise, when I awakened next morning my arm was much better. I then bought a supply of Zani-Buk, and continued with the treatment regularly. In three weeks the arm was quite well and I have never felt any trace of pain from it since. It is now some months since it was cured, so that it is evident the cure is permanent. Since that time my friend has had out his arm. This wound also turned to blood poison. Zani-Buk was applied and in his case also worked a complete cure. It is without doubt a marvelous salve."
